Singing from Loss into Hope

New & Historic Works, with Jeffrey Douma

August 8-14, 2021: Santa Fe, New Mexico

Journey to the culturally rich American Southwest and the iconic city of Santa Fe, New Mexico. Find yourself transported to colonial Latin America with a monumental Requiem Mass by José Maurício Nunes Garcia, a renowned Afro-Brazilian composer of the Classical era, whose piece is often compared to Mozart's Requiem in its scope and skill. Led by Jeffrey Douma of Yale University, and featuring works by Beethoven, Arianne Abela, and Andrea Ramsey, Nunes Garcia's work forms the centerpiece of an inspiring program.

Santa Fe is known the world over as a center for the arts. It is visually stunning, with some of the world's top art galleries as well as a totally unique aesthetic and cultural reputation, heavily influenced by the native populations who still call the area home. Santa Fe is also a great center for classical music. During your stay in Santa Fe, your package price will include entrance to at least one of the fabulous concerts going on at that time in this famously musical city.

SAFETY

Classical Movements takes your safety seriously, and we have designed every facet of our Choral Escapes program with your health and well-being in mind. Social distancing, singing masks, and aeration breaks will be implemented at all times during indoor and outdoor rehearsals or performances, and special care has been taken to engage venues and vendors that are respectful of COVID safety restrictions. Hotel rooms will be limited to individuals or household groups, and masks and distancing will be required for any group transportation, like motor coach rides.

For more information, view our Health and Safety guidelines document, accessible via the registration form linked above. Other terms and conditions apply.

Performance has been de-emphasized for these programs, to allow for flexibility and less pressure in rehearsals, and to further facilitate the mission of the Choral Escapes program, which is...
